

Noise Control Engineering Journal Open Access Agreement

The following Agreement is made between the Submitting/Corresponding Author and the Publisher concerning the publication of the submitted and after peer-review accepted manuscript as an Open Access Article in the Noise Control Engineering Journal.

Open Access Agreement made between Submitting/Corresponding Author and Publisher for Open Access Publication of an Article in the Journal Acta Acustica united with Acustica, p. 2

Copyright and License

- The Submitting/Corresponding Author hereby grants the Publisher and its legal successors (for US Government employees: to the extent transferable), for the full period of copyright, an irrevocable non-exclusive license to reproduce, publish, republish, reprint, transmit, distribute, display, archive and otherwise use the Article in whole or in part throughout the world in all forms and media of expression now or hereafter known, including reprints, translations, photographic reproductions, microform, electronic form (offline, online), or any other reproductions of similar nature, and to transfer or sublicense the rights granted onto any third party.
- For Open Access Articles, including Fast Track, authors will retain their copyright. The Submitting/Corresponding Author agrees to require that the Published Journal Article is credited as the original publication in any republication of the Article or extracts thereof authorized by the author/authors.
- All Open Access Articles, including Fast Track, are published under the Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 CC BY 4.0), which permits unrestricted commercial and non-commercial re-use of an Open Access Article provided the author is properly attributed. Creative Commons licenses are irrevocable. Details of this license are described at <http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0/legalcode> and <http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0> (human readable summary) and in the FAQs given on the Journal's Website.
- The Submitting/Corresponding Author agrees to grant to the general public the aforementioned Creative Commons copyright license (CC BY 4.0) in the Article, if accepted for publication.

Warranty

The Submitting/Corresponding Author signs for and accepts all responsibilities for releasing this material on behalf of any and all co-authors and declares that he/she is authorized and has written permission of any or all co-authors to enter into this Agreement. The Submitting/Corresponding Author warrants:

- that the contribution is original;
- that it has not been published before and is not under consideration for publication elsewhere;
- that it does not infringe upon any copyright, trademark, patent rights, or any other third party rights, and
- that if the contribution includes material of others, the author(s) has/have obtained the permission of the copyright owners in all such materials to enable them to grant the rights contained herein, including re-use under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 (CC BY 4.0). Copies of all such permissions are attached to the original submission and the usual credit lines are given in the Article. Any material received without such evidence will be assumed to originate from the author(s).
- that nothing in the contribution is obscene or libelous.
- that he/she has full power to make this grant and is authorized by all co-authors to enter into this Agreement.

Authors' rights

Ownership of copyright remains with the Authors provided that when reproducing the Article or extracts thereof they acknowledge and reference publication in the Journal as follows: author(s), title, in: "Noise Control Engineering Journal", volume, year, page number, DOI. Authors also retain the following rights:

- All proprietary rights other than copyright, such as patent rights.
- A manuscript (pre-print) previously posted on a non-commercial pre-print server can be submitted as an original article.

- The right to post the final, published PDF of their Article in an open repository of the author(s) own choice, e.g. his/her funder's (designated) repository or any other free public server, his/her own website or institutional repository immediately upon publication.

If the manuscript will for any reason not be accepted for publication, this agreement shall terminate, and neither the author(s) nor the publisher shall be under any further liability of obligation.

A signed copy of this Agreement and receipt of payment of the APC respectively fast track fee is a prerequisite of proceeding open access publication.

This Agreement shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the Commonwealth of Virginia, U.S.A. Place of fulfilment for this Agreement is the place of business of the Publisher. Any dispute relating to this Agreement shall be resolved in the state and federal courts serving Fairfax County, Virginia, U.S.A. and each party hereto waives any objection to venue and hereby submits to the personal jurisdiction of such courts.